

RE: Jeffrey A. Warner

To whom it may concern:

I am pleased to write a general letter of reference for Mr. Jeffrey A. Warner. I have known Jeff since his time as a student at the University of Wisconsin-Superior. I got to know Jeff particularly well in the spring of 2005 when he and I traveled with the University A Cappella Choir for a concert tour in Brazil.

Jeff is a bright, thoughtful, and very articulate young man, who has demonstrated a broad array of interests in his academic, work, and volunteer activities. Indeed, this eclectic background enables him to see the world through a broader lens than many of us. As a result, his world view is considerably less parochial than the average individual.

This is dramatically demonstrated in his volunteer work. He has served in Sarajevo, Bosnia, in a variety of volunteer capacities, as well as working with Habitat for Humanity and Men as Peace Makers at various times during recent years. He has a particular affinity for working with youth, though he also has spent a good bit of time working with elderly and disabled residents for the Bread of St. Anthony in Bosnia. Hence, it can be said that he meets well, and works well, with a broad array of people of very diverse ages and cultures.

During his time at the University of Wisconsin-Superior, Jeff demonstrated a strong commitment to academic excellence and success. Indeed, from 2003 through 2005 he received academic excellence and scholarly achievement awards at UW-Superior, as well as being elected to the National Dean's List. Jeff was also very active in extracurricular activities during his time at UW-Superior, including serving on the University Student Senate, the A Cappella Choir, and the University student newspaper.

It should be obvious by now that I think very highly of Jeff Warner, as both a student and fine human being. I can recommend him for any position or situation for which he feels qualified, without any hesitation or qualification whatsoever. I would also be glad to expand on the remarks contained in this letter. I may be reached at the telephone number on this letterhead.

Sincerely,
